BOYS' AND GIRLS' CALF CLUB

"I'd like to become a member of the boys' and girls' pure-bred calf club," said a boy recently while calling at the New Castle County Farm Bureau office.
This request has been received so often that the Executive Committee of the Farm Bureau authorized Mr. Bausman. County Agent, and Mr. Martin, State Club Leader, to formulate the neces-

The club will be organized and directed by the Boys' and Girls' Club Division of the New Castle County Farm Bureau. Local banks will be select to halp figures the project sked to help finance the project.

When twenty-five to thirty boys and girls between the age of twelve and twenty-one years are enrolled, Mr. Bausman will buy the calves from some dairy center and each member of the club will be provided with a calf or heifer at cost. The heifers will be about one year old and will be well grown, well made and of good breeding. It is estimated that the type of heifers suitable for such a club will cost around $175 per head. The club will continue for a period of three years, during which time the State Club Department will give carefu supervision and assist the members of the club to grow to maturity a high producing pure-bred cow.

With the co-operation of local banks the members of the club will be enabled to own their own heifers. At the end of each season, district shows will be held where the heifers will go into competition. The chamat the district shows will be taken to the State Fair where they will again go into competition. Memof the club who produce cham pers of the club wno produce cham-pion heifers will receive an award of a free scholarship to the Boys' and Girls' Short Course at the University of Delaware next winter.

CONSIGNMENT SALE A SUCCESS

The section surrounding Middletown i fast becoming celebrated for its numer-ous pure-bred Holstein cattle. In fact almost every dairyman has in his flock from one to a dozen of these high-cla The large consignment sale held the Middletown Hotel stables last Fri day afternoon, demonstrated the fact that it pays to grow this class of stock. Thirty-one head of Holstein stock were disposed of at public auction for $4075, an average of about $130 a head. This is considered remarkable when it is considered that more than twothirds of the consignmen year old and one-half of it under to months old, and also because money is scarce among the farmers and cattle

The top price of the sale was $350 for a cow with a 3-day-old calf by her side The highest price for a young bull was $245, at which figure a 14 monthwas knocked down. Several young bull calves from 4 to 6 months old brought from $140 to $165, while the lowest-pri animal in the sale was bid off at $30.

This was a bull calf 2 months old, Ins was a bull call 2 months old, bought by Archie Crawford, a boy aged 13 years, declared by the auctioneer to be the youngest bidder he ever dealt with in his experience of 30 years.

LOCAL HAPPENINGS A BIG OPERA HOUSE EVENT FRIENDS & VISITORS

On Wednesday evening next, April 13th, the Middletown public will be given a fine double bill of entertainment: 1st, the moving pictures with the well-known Miss Irene Castle in the leading role in "The Amateur the leading role in "The Amateur Wife", one of her best characterizations, well elaborated in many pleasing scenes with an excellent supporting ompany. 2d. A delightful melange of artistic reading, vocal music, fancy dancing and Irish comedy, with Miss Helen M. Casey, an exceptionally talented elocutionist and teacher of elocution, filling the foremost position. Miss Casey though young and alone in the world, thanks to her industry and to her own fine native wit, has already won a very creditable position in her art, and is proving herself a "chip off the old block", for she comes of distinguished ancestry, her father having been Chief Engineer of the Michigan Central Rail road and her uncle the builder of the big bridge spanning the Brandywine

The rest of the program consists of pleasing musical numbers together with exhibitions of artistic dancing by the following ladies and gentlemen who have consented to help make a full night's amusement for the patrons of the New Century Club.

Miss Mary D. Shields, who is not only herself a graceful exemplar of Fancy Dancing, but is also a teacher in the Wilmington Auditorium of that art.
"Snap Your Fingers at Care", by Miss Shields assisted by the following graceful artistes, Miss Kathryn Kurtz, Miss Norma L. Bowan and Miss Sara Guick, giving the regular Broadway dancing style.

"La Vida"—Miss Mary D. Shields

and Carroll Guinveur. "A Jolly Night Quintette", Messrs.
James Kennedy, Howard Wolsey, John
McCrea, Samuel Crossan and Thurston

All these gentlemen are clever artists and will highly please their audience.

Mr. Griffith will also at his own experse bring down in outcome. perse bring down in autos a special orchestra under the leadership of Prof.

Mr. Griffith is bringing all this high grade histrionic talent for the benefit of the New Century Club, thus honorably fulfilling a promise made over a year ago, altho a promotion both in recition and calve has called him to position and salary has called him to another music firm, the Boehm & Mc-Adams Music Co., of Wilmington. Mr. Griffith gained a state-wide fame through his having the honor of leader ship in the late presentation of "America" which with its 960 actors on the stage in the Playhouse, for a week de lighted Wilmingtonians and visitors from all over the state. Therefore, Mr. Griffith's endorsement of these talented Thespians insures all who attend next Wednesday evening a very pleas-ing entertainment. Program begins at 8 o'clock. Tickets 28c and 55c.

The New Century Club has earned the gratitude of all Middletown by its many public spirited labors and notably for its arduous and patriotic services in the late Hun war, and will no doubt re-ceive the fine tribute from them of a herring-packed house—galleries and all, next Wednesday evening.

Wheat Crop Damaged

The cold, freezing weather and heavy frosts of last week has, from all appear ances played havoc with the wheat pro pect in this neighborhood. A ride through the country when the sur is shining out hot, shows the whea heavy growth of more than seven inche in some places. This young growth, being tender and full of sap, has been frozen and is now dying. People here who consider themselves experts on wheat conditions predict great damage on this account. The farmers are viewing the prospect with a very gloomy out-look. The present crop was the most ex-pensive by far that was ever planted here, owing to high prices paid for fer-tilizers and labor last year. Now with the prospect of a short yield, it looks bad

The bulk of last year's crop is still in the bins here. The growers have been holding out for a raise in price, but it now looks as though the price would fall to $1 before May 15.

Townsend Man For Marshall Walter S. Money, of near Townsend

The State appropriation for ho cholera serum and virus has not all been used and farmers can call on their veterinarians to have their hogs vaccinated and the only charge will be the fee of the veterinarian for doing the work. The law does not permit the cents per head for vaccinating the hogs Where the farmer has a large number of hogs to be vaccinated, or where neighbor ing farmers get together and have the ing farmers get together and have the work done in a co-operative way the charge properly may be less than fifty cents per head.

Wherever hog cholera has existed within a year farmers should have their hogs vaccinated. The best time to do it is when they are young and weigh it is when they are young and weigh about fifty pounds each. In case the farmers have any trouble with their hogs and do not understand the cause they should call upon Dr. M. L. Zurkow, of Dover, the United States Hog Cholera

Specialist, to make an investigation.

Farmers in districts where anthrax has occurred during the last two or three years should have their animals pro years snound have their animals pro-tected by vaccination. This work is paid for by the State and the farmer should simply call upon his local veter-inarian and have the animals vaccinated free of charge.

Strawberries Killed

According to advices from fruit grow-ing sections of the state the damage to orchards and small fruit is much great er from the frost of Monday night last week than has been reported. It is declared that the strawberries are entirely destroyed in many sections, and that there will be no yield from the beds this year. Other early berrie are similarly affected but none wer so badly damaged as strawberries.

The apple crop is even more damaged than early reports indicate, an exami-nation of the orchards in several sec tions show that only about eight per cent of the blossoms withstood the frost The others were killed outright, according to the statement of those who gave the trees a critical examina

AMUSEMENT FOR EVERYBODY

Old folks as well as the youngsters will enjoy the privileges at "The Foun-tain" soda water and ice-cream parlor which will be open for business the coming week.

The largest and most expensive soda fountain in the state, south of Wilmington is being installed this week. In the front is the fountain and the candy cases containing sweets to please everyone. The rear part of the store is fitted up for the young folks to enjoy a dance from an up-to-date Wurlitgry jano, playing 30 pieces of music consecutively. A beautiful hardwood waxed floor makes this pleasure more enjoyable. Small tables are placed around the room for the convenience of polite young ladies.

A gallery and mezzanine floor has been erected at the extreme south end of the room, approached by an easy stairway from the side, and here will elderly folks who donot dance, but like

He came stealing across the snownusher of the first degree. Very down from the couch, though wracked silently and swiftly he slipped off his snowshoes at the door. The door itself was unlocked, just as he had supposed. In an instant more he was tip-toeing, a dark, silent figure, through the corridors of the house. He held his rifle ready in his hands.

He peered into Lennox's bedroom The room was unoccupied. Then the floor of the corridor creaked at Lennox's wasted breast. beneath his step; and he knew nothing further was to be gained by waiting. If Lennox suspected his presence, he might be waiting with aimed rifle as he opened the door of the liv-

He glided faster. He halted once more—a moment at the living-room door to see if Lennox had been disturbed. He was lying still, however, so Cranston pushed through.

Lennox glanced up from his maga-tine to find that unmistakable thing, the barrel of a rifle, pointed at his breast. Cranston was one of those rare marksmen who shoot with both eyes open-and that meant that he kept his full visual powers to the last instant before the hammer fell.

"I can't raise my arms," Lennox said simply. "One of 'em won't work at all—besides, against the doctor's Cranston stole over toward him, looking closely for weapons. He pulled aside the woolen blanket that Lennox had drawn up over his body, and he pushed his hand into the cushions of his rifle through the fork of his arm, finger coiled into the trigger guard, assured him that Lennox was not "heeled" at all. Then he laughed and went to work.

"I thought I told you once," Lennex began with perfect coldness, "that you want to get on me and hamme the doors of my house were no longer

"You did say that," was Cranston's guttural reply. "But you see I'm here just the same, don't you? And what are you going to do about it?"

"I probably felt that sooner or later you would come to steal-just as you and your crowd stole the supplies from the forest station last winterand that probably influenced me to give the orders. I didn't want thieves around my house, and I don't want them now. I don't want coyotes, on him. He no longer smiled. The rodent features became intent; the eyes narrowed to curious, bright slits under the dark lashes. He went to Dan's room, searched his bureau drawer and all the pockets of the clothes hanging in his closet. He upset his trunk and pawed among old letters in the suitcase. Then, stealing like some creature of the wilderness, he came back to the living room.

Lennox was not on the divan where he had left him. He lay instead on the floor near the fireplace; and he met the passion-drawn face with entire calmness. His motives were perfectly plain. He had just made a desperate nox began to crawl toward the door. effort to procure Dan's rifle that hung He managed to grasp the corner of is because fact outruns imagination.

"Dan learned it because he was sick. He isn't sick now. Don't presume too much on that."

Cranston laughed with harsh scorn. "But that isn't the question. I said I've wasted all the time I'm going to. You are an old man and helpless; but I'm not going to let that stand in the way of getting what I came to get. They're hidden somewhere around this house. I've watched, and he's had no chance to take them into town. I'll give you-just five seconds to tell me where they're hidden.'

"And I give you," Lennox replied, one second less than that-to go to Both of them breathed hard in the quiet room. Cranston was trembling now, shivering just a little in his arms the couch. A few deft pats, holding and shoulders. "Don't get me wrong, Lennox," he warned.

"And don't have any delusions in regard to me, either," Lennox replied.
"I've stood worse pain from this accident than any man can give me while I yet live, no matter what he does. If me in the approved Cranston way, l can't defend myself-but you won't get a civil answer out of me. I'm used to pain, and I can stand it. I'm not used to fawning to a coyote like you, and I can't stand it."

But Cranston hardly heard. An idea had flamed in his mind and cast a red glamor over all the scene about him. It was instilling a poison in his nerves and a madness in his blood, and it was searing him, like fire, in his dark brain. Nothing seemed real. He suddenly bent forward, tense. "That's all right about you," he said. "But you'd be a little more polite if it was Snowbird—and Dan—that would have to pay." Perhaps the color faded slightly in Lennox's face; but his voice did not "They'll see your footprints before they come in and be ready," Lennox "If I were in one piece," Lennox answered him very quietly, "instead of a bundle of broken bones that can't lift its every 12 to the control of the control

"It wouldn't surprise me a great deal. It's your own trade." Lennox shuddered once on his place on the

"I wouldn't have to worry about those letters then, would I? They are somewhere in the house, and they'd be burned to ashes. But that isn't all that would be burned. You could may-be crawl out, but you couldn't carry the guns, and you couldn't carry the pantry full of food. You're nearly eighty miles up here from the nearest occupied house, with two pair of snowshoes for the three of you and one dinky pistol. And you can't walk at all. It would be a nice pickle, wouldn't it? Wouldn't you have a fat chance of getting down to civiliza-

The voice no longer held steady. It trembled with passion. This was no idle threat. The brain had already seized upon the scheme with every in tention of carrying it out. The wilderness lay stark and bare, stripped of all delusion-not only in the snow world outside but in the hearts of these two men, its sons.

"I have only one hope," Lennox re plied. "I hope, unknown to me, that Dan has already dispatched those letters. The arm of the law is long Cranston. It's easy to forget that fact up here. It will reach you in the Cranston turned through the door, into the kitchen. He was gone a long time. Lennox heard him at work; the crinkle of paper and then a pour-ing sound around the walls. Then he heard the sharp crack of a match. An instant later the first wisp of smoke came curling, pungent with burning oil, through the corridor.

"You crawled from your couch to reach that gun," Cranston told him when he came in. "Let's see you crawl out now.

Lennox's answer was a curse-the last, dread outpouring of an unbroker will. He didn't look again at the glittering eyes. He scarcely watched Cranston's further preparations: the oil poured on the rugs and furnishings, the kindling placed at the base of the curtains. Cranston was trained in this work. He was taking no chances on their temper like this.-London Punch the blanket on the divan as he went and he dragged it behind him. Pain wracked him, and smoke half-blinded him. But he made it at last. And by the time he had crawled one hundred feet over the snow crust the whole structure was in flames. The red tongues spoke with a roer, Cranston, the fire-madness on his face, hurried to the outbuildings. There he repeated the work. He touched a match to the hay in the barn, and the wind flung the flame through it in an instant. The sheds and other outbuildings were treated with oil. And seeing that his work was done, he called once to the prone body of Lennox on the snow and mushed away into the silences.

Lennox's answer was not a curse this time. Rather it was a prayer, unuttered, and in his long years Lennox had not prayed often. When he prayed at all, the words were burning fire. His prayer was that of Samson -that for a moment his strength might come back to him.

CHAPTER II.

Two miles across the ridges, Dan and Snowbird saw a faint mist blowing between the trees. They didn't recognize it at first. It might be fine snow, blown by the wind, or even one of those mysterious fogs that sometimes sweep over the snow.

"But it looks like smoke," Snowbird "But it couldn't be. The trees are oo wet to burn." But then a sound that at first was just the faintest whisper in which believe, became distinct past all denying. It was that menacing crackle of a great fire, that in the whole world of ounds is perhaps the most terrible. "It's our house," Snowbird told him.

"And father can't get out." She spoke very quietly. Perhaps the most terrible truths of life are always spoken in that same quiet voice. Then both of them started across the snow as fast as their unwieldy snowshoes would permit.

"He can crawl a little," Dan called to her. "Don't give up, Snowbird mine. I think he'll be safe."

They mounted to the fop of the ridge; and the long sweep of the for-est was revealed to them. The house was a singular tall pillar of flame, already glowing that dreadful red from which firemen, despairing, turn away. Then the girl seized his hands and danced about him in a mad circle.

"He's alive!" she cried. "You can see him-just a dot on the snow. He crawled out to safety."

She turned and sped at a breakneck pace down the ridge. Dan had to race to keep up with her. But it wasn't enwise to try to mush so fast. A dead log lay beneath the snow with a broken limb stretched almost to its surface, and it caught her snowshoe. The wood cracked sharply, and she fell forward in the snow. But she wasn't hurt, and the snowshoe itself, in spite of a small crack in the wood, was still serviceable.

"Haste makes waste," he told her. "Keep your feet on the ground, Snowbird; the house is gone already and your father is safe. Remember what lies before us."

Bodies,
JUNIOR TOPIC—Growing Strong.
JUNIOR TOPIC—GROWING SENIOR TOPIC
The Value of Health.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC
-Public Health Problems.

The teachings of this lesson have an important bearing upon physical health, but the primary reference is moral. The sin with which Paul was dealing was fornication, not matters of hygiene. That physical health may be included we do not question, but sad and serious will be the blunder if that only is taught.

I.—Glorifying God in Your Body (I Cor. 6:19, 20,

It should be noted that the last clause of verse 20 is omitted in the Revised Version and the best manuscripts. The conclusion of Paul's argument is, "therefore glorify God in your body.

1. The Christian's body is the temple of the Holy Ghost (v. 19). God's dwelling place on earth is now the releemed human body instead of the temple at Jerusalem. If the sinless Spirit is to dwell in the body it must e kept clean. To defile or abuse the body in any way is to insult the Spirit and commit the most awful sacrilege This truth apprehended solves forever the problem of licentiousness, gluttony, use of tobacco, the abuse or neglect of the body in any way whatsoever.

2. The Christian's body is God's property (v. 19). Being God's temple, the proprietary right is in God and not man. Being the property of the Lord, the Christian's motto is, "Whether therefore ye eat or drink, or whatso ever ye do, do all to the glory of God (I Cor. 10:31). "Holiness unto the Lord" ought to be written over our

3. The Christian's body has been bought (v. 20). The price paid to redeem the body was the precious blood of Christ (I Peter 1: 18, 19). We estimate things by what they cost. When we estimate our bodies in that light we will be very jealous of their purity. Guarding our health is part of our re-

II.—Keeping the Body Under Control (I Cor. 9: 24-27).

The Christian's life is more than mere existence, there is something to do-to be accomplished.

1. It is a race (vv. 24, 25). In order to win a prize there must be self-de-nial and definite exertion. The Christian obtains life by contact with Jesus Christ through faith (John 3:16; 3:36; 5:24). This he possesses before he can begin the race. While he gets salva-tion (life) at the beginning, God places before him definite rewards as incent ives to exertion. The Christian be-lieves to get life, but works for rewards. In the Olympian games only one could hope to get the prize, but in the Christian race there is a reward waiting for every one who disciplines himself and runs. As the racer in these games mastered his desires and abstained from everything which might hinder him to win the prize, so the Christian will make any sacrifice to win. The prize in the Grecian games was corruptible, but the prize of the Christian is incorruptible. If the heathen would practice such self-denial regardless of its pain for a gar-land of pine leaves, shall not the Christian turn from bodily indulgences of every kind so as to obtain the crown of righteousness which fadeth not

2. It is a fight (vv. 26, 27). The Christian's efforts are not mere beatings of the air. He has a real antagonist. His fight is not a sham conflict He should exert himself with all his energy, and strike to hit his enemy. In order to win success the body must be kept under. In this case the antagonist is the body. It should be so dealt with as to bring it under subjection.
All the evil propensities of his nature should be brought under control.

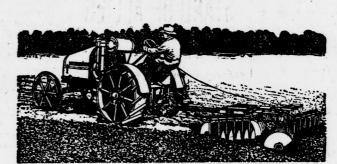

III .- Reaping What You Sow (Gal.

God has established a law in the world that whatsoever a man sows that shall he also reap. To go on sowing with the expectation of not reaping is to mock God. The world is full of examples of those who thus mocked Him. This text has primary reference to giving to the support of ministers of the gospel; its real bearing is upon the believer for his stinginess rather than upon the sinner for his meanness, but it has a bearing on all that we do. If we are primarily concerned with the sowing to the flesh, which shall end in a harvest of corruption. On the other hand, if we act on the impulses of the Holy Spirit within us we shall reap a rich harvest of spiritual things.

Very Beautiful. Very beautiful is this idea of God giving us something to look at in order to keep our faith steady. He knows that we need pictures and signs and themes He has well supplied. We might have forgotten the covenant, but we cannot fail to see the rainbow; every child sees it and exclaims at it with joy. And if you tell the child the meaning which God put into it, the bow becomes still more beautiful, And so with all other things God has given us as signs and tokens; the sacred book, the Bible; the water of Baptism; the bread and wine of the Sacrament, the blessed Sabbath, and the House of Prayer; all these have deeper meanings than are written in their names. Search for those meanings, keep them, and you will be rich

NICARAGUA RESIGNS MEMBERSHIP in the league having cost Nicaragua $48,000 for one year, she has signified her intention of resigning from the club, and the question now is whether, under Article One of the league covenant she will be permitted to do so. That article provides: "Any member of the league may, after two years' notice of its intention so to do, withdraw from the league, provided that all its international obligations and all its obligations under this covenant shall have been fulfilled at the time of its withdrawal." One of the obligations under the covenant appears to be that Nicaragua is one year in arrears in payment of dues. Will the league let her out before she has paid? Or will she be posted? Then, too, there were many obligations owing to foreign powers by Nicaragua before she joined the league. Are these included in the firm league. Are these included in the "international obligations" referred to by Article One? Or is the league without jurisdiction as to a pre-existing debt? At all events, Nicaragua can't see $48,-000 per annum worth in being a member of the Geneva honk-a-tonk, so it's "good-bye, girls, I'm through."

OUR CHIEF CONCERN

THE Soviet government in Russia announced its purpose to over throw the republican form of government in the United States, and ther asked the United States Government to give tacit recognition by establishing trade relations. Restoration of trade relations is highly desirable and the people of the United States will be de. lighted when the time comes to resume normal commercial transactions. What sort of government Russia shall maintain is no business of ours, provided it deals honestly in its business affairs and recognizes our right to maintain the form of government that suits us best. We recognized an absolute monarchy when it was in power in Russia, and we recognize a practical democracy in Switzerland. The form of government concerns us little; whether it is a dependable government with which to deal concerns us much.

MONDAY, APRIL 11th A PARAMOUNT PICTURE Presenting DAVID GRAHAM PHILIPS' GREATEST STORY "The Cost"

Violet Heming

Here is an unusual fine picture, a romance of love and Wall street. A story that strikes home, founded on a social sensation in real life. It was recognized as one of the few novels truly worthy to be called great. If you remember—Violet Heming, was the gifted actress that played in "Every Woman." Pathe News. Burton Holmes Traveling Pictures.

TUESDAY, APRIL 12th A PARAMOUNT-ARTCRAFT PICTURE Starring

Robert Warwick

"Thou Art The Man"

A smashing tale of the diamond fields of Africa, whirlwind action, unusual scenes, a dashing role of love, adventure, conflict, tramp. Falsely accused of smuggling gems he went to prison to shield the girl he loved. But when he came out and found the guilty had poisoned her mind against him—well, come see the finish. 10th episode "Son of Tarzan." Pathe Review.

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 13th LOOK! LOOK! Vaudeville and Movies

The ladies of the New Century Club have chosen this right as a benefit for the piano fund. Mr. Griffith, this right as a benefit for the plane tune. Ar. Grintin, of Wilmington, will present a one-act elecutionist; act 2, 4 dancing Broadway girls entitled "Snapping Your Fingers at Care;" 2 couples dancing fox trot; 1 string quartette; 1 Irish comedian. This will make a 5 or 6 act bill of the best vaudeville. Mr. Griffith states its the best of the best vaudeville. Mr. Griffith states its the best Middletown ever had. Irene Castle will also be shown in "The Amiature Wife." the best picture Irene Castle ever made. Buy your tickets early from the Century Club ladies. Prices, 55c and 28c. Space will not allow us to

About Ford Cars—Solid Logic

THE Ford car has been fundamentally right from the beginning. That fact made it "The Universal Car." It has always lead in lowest first cost as well as in lowest cost to maintain and operate. Runabout, Touring Car, Coupe, Sedan, Truck and Fordson Tractor -we have them all and will make reasonably prompt delivery.

Simplicity has ever marked the designing and building of Ford cars, trucks and tractors. Henry Ford and his engineers have always striven for simplicity with strength. The success of the Model "T" Ford car and a great part of the Ford Motor Company's success has come from an early understanding and appeciation of that principle in motor car construction. The fewer the parts in a car, fewer the parts to go wrong. When that simple truth is carried out in producing a car, as it is in Ford cars, trucks and tractors, the result is bound to be a simplicity of design and building that means simplicity, durability and economy of operation.

This simplicity of construction proves itself in the ease w Ford cars, trucks and tractors are driven. Four million five hundred Ford cars in daily service proves every claim we make.

More than ever we are sure the Ford car is your necessity-let's have your order to-day.
